Big Country Winter Games a success!!

The 1992 Big Country Winter Games Hosting Committee and its 260 volunteers successfully hosted 550 athletes as part of the 1992 Big Country Winter Games in Sundre this past weekend, January 31, February 1 and 2. All reports indicate that participants, spectators, volunteers and officials went home pleased with the events that they had been a part of.

From the Opening Ceremonies on Friday night, which featured Mr. Dan Wicklum of the Calgary Stampede Football Club as the Guest speaker and included a special Rap group called "Black Magic" to the final gold medal hockey game between Sundre and Cochrane, excitement could be sensed at every venue site.

The sun was shining and the skies were clear and although several sports including Cross Country skiing had to be moved to the Bearberry Nordic Centre where there was more snow, the Hosting Committee was pleased with spectator turn out and directly related it to the beautiful weather.

Several highlights of the weekend included a special Karate demonstration, a children's program hosted by Lee and Sally Paley of "Balloon Landing," a well attended folk music entertainment evening and of course all the Alberta and Host Class events including: Biathlon, Curling, Mixed Adult Volleyball, Senior Carpet Bowling, Snowboarding and Gymnastics just to name a few.

Each Alberta Class Sport produced winners which will now proceed on to the 1992 Alberta Winter Games in Fort McMurray, February 27 through March 16, 1992.

To each of these individual and team athletes, a trip to the Alberta Winter Games is a special honour and most times is an honour that comes once in their life time.

The Games Hosting Committee would like to thank all those persons who were involved in the Games and they hope that your participation, no matter how little, was enjoyable.

Several of our potted plants sit in those shallow dishes that are designed to hold overflow moisture or let you water your plants from the bottom. The little dishes don't do their job very well because they are filled with rocks. There are jars of rocks in the back of the pantry, baskets of rocks with the potting supplies, chocolate boxes full of polished rocks in my closet, slices of rough agate on bookshelves.

The rocks are a varied lot, none of which is worth much more than you would pay for pit run gravel but each of them has been individually picked and examined and wondered over by somebody in my family. I am especially partial to the flat, grey, round or oval ones that feel warm and smooth in my hand and look like they have been washed and polished by a million years of running water. I also like the hard black ones that polish up to a satin finish, white ones that look like bits of ivory or anything with a good strong color. In this part of the world a good strong color is golden-brown, red-brown or copper-brown. There are no true reds, blues, yellows or greens. Pink and mauve show up occasionally.

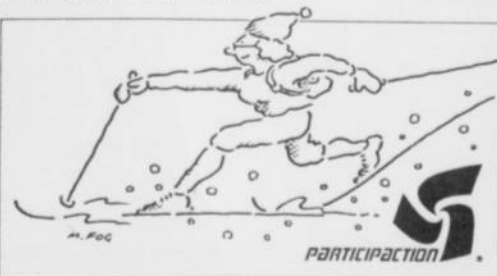

My mom is also a collector of rocks, but she is more selective than I and her favorites are the unusual ones. A dark grey with 2 heavily embossed white stripes, a perfect circle glittering with muscovite, a tiny pyramid striped in maroon, grey, and mauve and a flat bottomed brown one with a swirl on top. When we were kids we used to imagine sneaking that last one into a box of chocolates and having some unsuspecting guest demolish his dentures. When Mom and Dad went by trailer to Alaska Mom found lots of interesting stones. Dad said he had to keep sneaking them out of the back of the trailer or they would never have been able to haul the load home. He exaggerated a little and he picked up the odd rock himself. It was he who gave me what I'm sure is a pre-historic pinecone.

When the kids were little we gave them a small rock tumbler and they obligingly filled the drum with rocks and grit and turned two cups of gravel into one cup of softly gleaming pebbles. Then they lost interest and I had to admit that I really bought the thing for me. I rarely find time to run it but when I do I have plenty of rocks to choose from, there are the jars in the pantry, the basketball in the potting supplies and 7 or 8 in each pocket of every coat I own. This morning I found a lovely orange toned one, several hard blacks that will probably polish nicely and a little soft grey that almost has a hole through it.

I forgot to mention that I also look for wee stones with holes through them and that's because of an ancient Scottish folksaying that goes, "If ever you find a wee stone with a hole all the way through you must put it on a string about your neck for it will protect you from the arrows that fly by day and the pestilence that stalketh the night." Our daughter found just such a stone in a ruined castle in Somerset, England. She wears it on a leather thong with a couple of coordinated beads and it looks great. The magic must be working, because she hasn't been troubled by arrows or pestilence.

There is magic in stones and since the beginning of time every civilization has recognized it. Earliest man arranged stones in the shapes of animals and in line with the sun and the seasons, Stonehenge is in the simplest terms a collection of magic rocks and so are the giant patterns laid out on plateaus in Peru and deserts in Australia. There is magic in dinosaur bone and amber and petrified wood and fossilized ammonite. I think there is magic in the rock fence between my husband's grandparents farms in Norway and in my dad's prehistoric pinecone. We know there is magic in precious stones how many curses, crimes and passions have been caused by someone wanting what is really just another rock.

I have no idea what I am going to do with my own collection of rocks, but I know I'll keep adding to it. Who am I to quarrel with a million years of human nature.

OPINIONS/EDITORIAL*Guest Editorial

Is it me, or are people getting anxious these days? I'm not talking about your everyday run-of-the mill tailgater on the highway, or the coupon-laden shopping cart shover at your local supermarket . . . I'm talking about people who simply have to be first. What once was a welcome brood of enterprising go-getters is now becoming a serious epidemic of the "me first" generation.

Take the other day, for example. I was on my way into a local bank and was about to clutch the handle to open the door, when a woman juttied up from behind me—strategically edging her body between me and the door. Before I could get a "Well, excuse me," in sideways, she was off and running to the teller line-up. Besides infuriating me (after all, it was Thursday and I too wanted to rush home to eat supper and catch the latest conspiracies on this week's Knot's) it made me wonder about what lengths people go to accomplish even the most petty victories.

Standing at the back of the line-up later on gave me lots of time to think. . . Is it really that important being first? . . . being better than someone else? . . . being the best?

True, there are always exceptions to every rule, but with the giving holiday season in our rearview mirrors, maybe it's time we turn the mirror on our selfishness and egotism and take a closer look. After all, objects in the mirror are actually closer than they appear.

On a lighter note, has anyone noticed how tidy our streets are this spring? It's certainly enlightening to see the public take greater care in ensuring trash is put in its place. Here's to a litter-free 1992!

For all you winter-lovers out there . . . Environment Canada has confirmed reports Groundhog Balzac Billy has, indeed, seen his shadow entitling us to another six weeks of winter. Few complaints are rolling in, with small wonder. If we only would've known winter was going to be this mild, who would have bothered uprooting the garden?!

WHAT ARE TYPO BUGS?

They are microscopic bugs that get on the type. They move around the letters, they even go so far as to eat some of them.

Occasionally they eat half of a letter but they have been known to eat one or two whole ones.

These bugs live in the typesetting machine where they do their dirty work.

We are doing our best to keep these bugs under control but occasionally they slip by us. Please accept our apologies for any inconvenience they may have caused.

Political thoughts*Dear Editor:

Since I have been blind for the last two years and I have had plenty of time to think, I have gotten around to thinking about politics.

It frightens me to think about the powers given to our prime minister and our political system; the prime minister being able to select his cabinet from the elected members and also having the power to drop anyone when he sees fit or shuffle them around until they see things in the same light as he does. I shudder to think of what can happen to our great country when a prime minister with his four or five year mandate can pass legislation similar to what has been passed in the last 10 or 15 years, allowing him to portray dictatorship.

My first example is bilingualism, which was passed to appease the people of Quebec who in turn refuse to allow any English signs to be posted in Quebec and are going so far as to restrict the English language in the school playgrounds. Were it not for two courageous men, Clyde Wells of Newfoundland and Elijah Harper of Manitoba, Canada would now be under the Meech Lake Agreement, giving Quebec special privileges. I think of Quebec as an unhappy, dissatisfied, and demanding member of our family of Canadian provinces. I would like to see Quebec stay in Canada as an equal partner with all other provinces, abiding by the same rules that apply to the other provinces. Premier Bourassa is tiptoeing along a fine line trying to appease separatists and those opposed to separation. I frankly cannot imagine Quebec politicians separating their province from the rest of the country and then have to compete for their jobs with the federal politicians returning home to Quebec.

My second issue is the passing of the metric system in Canada, which cost Canada many millions of dollars and made it very difficult for many people such as farmers whose land was divided into one square mile sections, consisting of 640 acres. Using the metric measurements, this equals 259 hectares. A town 20 miles down the road is now 32 kilometres, or as more commonly referred to, 20 minutes away.

My third point is the introduction of the Free Trade Agreement with the United States, which is proving to be a disaster, especially its introduction at a time of great recession. Millions of dollars are spent south of the border and many industries are moving to the United States. I think this results in many bankruptcies, much unemployment, and the loss of tax revenue to our Canadian government.

It is my belief that none of these three issues would have been passed in the House of Commons if the members had been allowed to vote according to the wishes of the people who elected them. The same holds true for the G.S.T. It would never have passed in its present form had there been a free vote on it, especially the clause that enables a person to submit a claim to have G.S.T. refunded after having to submit the G.S.T. in the first place.

With these three issues and the G.S.T. I wish you a "Happy New Year???"

Roy Banta,
Crossfield

Alberta support appreciated*Dear Editor:

On the 12th of January, an Albertan citizens' organization called "Together for Canada Committee," paid for an ad to run in several Quebec newspapers. Its message was simple and clear: Albertans want Quebec to remain within a strong and united Canada.

As a Member of the Quebec National Assembly representing the Equality Party of Quebec I would like to thank all of Alberta for the kind gesture of the "Together for Canada Committee."

This was a much needed and thoughtful statement from community groups who truly represent Canada. They have touched many Quebecers. It is gestures such as this that we need more of. They go a long way towards keeping this country of ours together.

MP's corner

Louise Feltham
Wildrose MP

Secretary of State for External Affairs, Barbara McDougall, announced recently a package of security enhancement measures to the operations of the passport office. The amendments will strengthen the security and quality control of Canadian passports while maintaining the quality of service currently provided to Canadians.

The measures will be implemented over a two year period to allow for ongoing assessments of the effectiveness of new security measures and the overall impact on service to the public. Highlights of the package include; amendments to the list of persons eligible to sign applications as guarantors, the opening of additional passports offices, retention of documentary evidence of citizenship while the applications are being processed, and a fee increase for Canadian passports and travel documents. The passport office continues to stress security as its highest priority. The package balances security and service to the public while sustaining the international reputation of the Canadian passport.

Effective as of Jan. 1, 1992 the cost of Canadian passports have increased from $25 to $35. A fee increase was necessary to offset the cost of Canadian Passport Services and these enhanced security measures. The last passport fee increase was Jan. 1, 1988.

Proposed deal raises doctors' fees 2.8%

Alberta physicians are voting on a proposed seven-year agreement that will increase their fees by 2.8% in the first year and introduce a global budget for physician services. The tentative agreement, reached between Alberta Health and the Alberta Medical Association, is going out this week to AMA members for ratification by mail-in ballot. If ratified, the agreement takes effect April 1. Ballots are due by Feb. 18.

A new Administrative Council also is introduced which will serve as the senior liaison mechanism between the AMA and Alberta Health, and deal with issues such as the supply and distribution of medical services.

Both parties note the agreement was reached in a spirit of cooperation and compromise and was designed, as stated in its preamble, to ensure "that residents of Alberta will continue to have reasonable access to quality health care services."

"The agreement cements a new working partnership between Alberta Health and the Alberta Medical Association that will maintain the principles of Medicare—and enhance the quality and effectiveness of medical care in Alberta. By placing a limit on overall annual expenditures, the agreement will ensure that the medical care insurance program remains affordable for this and future generations of Albertans," says Health Minister Nancy Betkowski. AMA President Ronald E. Fraser notes that "this landmark agreement guarantees a greater voice for physicians in the planning and direction of the health-care system—the kind of partnership we need to truly be out patients' advocates."

The agreement includes: - a seven-year master agreement; - a three-year agreement on fees and total program costs.

The previous master agreement was signed in 1986. The new contract: - continues to recognize the AMA as the sole and exclusive representative of physicians for matters affecting insured medical benefits. In addition, Alberta Health will help the AMA seek recognition from Alberta hospitals to represent doctors practising in hospitals.

- establishes an Administrative Council, co-chaired by the Deputy Minister of Health and the AMA Executive Director. In addition to dealing with planning physician supply, the council will address all matters relating to the medical care insurance program as well as broader health-care management issues.

- establishes the principles of a total annual expenditure limit, or global budget, for the Medical Care Insurance Program.

- provides for arbitration if agreement can't be reached in the future.

The financial agreement includes a cost-of-living fee increase of 2.8% in the first year, as well as 2.7% for increased use of services from such factors as population growth, aging and new technology. If necessary, physicians' fee will be adjusted during the year to ensure the annual expenditure limit, estimated to be $868 million in 1992-93, is not exceeded.

For the second and third years, fees will increase by 85% of the prior year's consumer price index. Allowances also will be made for increased use of physician services, resulting from factors such as new procedures and technology and population growth, all within an annual expenditure limit. Future years will be subject to negotiation.

The Alberta Government and the AMA Board of Directors have approved the tentative agreement. It also received approval from AMA specialty section presidents.

This week, the AMA held a series of 11 meetings to brief its membership. More than 3,100 members of the AMA are eligible to vote.

Water analysis advised before buying treatment system

Before deciding on any water treatment program, farm families should have their water analyzed says an Alberta Agriculture regional engineering technologist.

Ken Williamson says some farm families have had a salesman show them "how bad their water is" with demonstrations such as a precipitation test. "This particular test grabs attention and is also deceiving. People shouldn't be swayed with this kind of test, but should have their water analyzed."

In a precipitation test a demonstrator puts a water sample in a jar and inserts a pair of electric probes. The water bubbles and turns color. Sludge forms and settles in the bottom of the jar. When the "test" is repeated with distilled water, nothing happens.

"This sort of test doesn't necessarily mean your water isn't drinkable. It only shows that there are minerals present that allow the water to carry an electric current. This current causes the corrosion on the electrodes and the result is the sludge you see.

"Nothing happens in the distilled water because most minerals have been removed. If you put a pinch of salt in the distilled water, you'd get results similar to the original demonstration," he says.

Williamson notes the level of minerals in water may or may not pose either health or aesthetic quality concerns. Aesthetic concerns are most easily identified because they get people's attention. A high iron level, for example, could give water a rusty color. "If the water stinks or stains, it won't necessarily be a health problem, unless you are the type of person who dies from embarrassment from guests arriving at your home," he says.

Health and aesthetic concerns can usually be corrected by some sort of water treatment system. "But before you buy, you need to have a proper water analysis, so you buy the right equipment for the job and are sure you really need the treatment system," says the Red Deer based Williamson.

Lucy Beck, a health inspector with the Wetoka Health Unit, agrees that water analysis is the first step. "Your local health unit is a resource you can and should use," she adds.

All Alberta health units can provide bacteriological and chemical analysis of water samples. The health unit will provide bottles for the samples. Depending on the test and any backlog, results are available between one and up to eight weeks. Test results come back with an interpretation and an information sheet comparing results with national drinking water standards.

Among the 18 common chemical levels the analysis examines are sodium, nitrates and nitrites, fluoride and iron. The test also determines water hardness, total dissolved solids and alkalinity.

"This analysis will identify any problems and can tell you which system you may need," says Beck, whose service area covers the countries of Wetaskiwin and Ponoka. "For example, if your water is hard, you might want a softening system. If you have a high sodium level, and have someone with high blood pressure in the family, then you may need a more costly system of distillation or reverse osmosis."

Local 4-Hers at provincial conference

Celebrating anniversaries was a special part of the annual provincial 4-H Leaders' Conference attended by local leaders Laurie Lewis and Darlene Hallett Jan. 10 through 12 in Edmonton. The first Alberta 4-H Leaders' Conference was held 50 years ago and the 1992 "Golden visions" edition also served as a kick-off to the 75th anniversary of the 4-H movement in Alberta.

As part of the dual anniversary, the over 300 Alberta delegates were joined by adult volunteer leaders and special guests from across Canada and the United States. "We usually have delegates from Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Montana," said Mahlon Weir, of Alberta Agriculture's 4-H Branch and the conference chair, "But, this year our guests also came from British Columbia, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, Hawaii, Wyoming, Oregon, Nebraska and Idaho."

Featured speaker Cyndy Stevenson, of Calgary, provided participants with a guide to stress management in her presentation, "If your vision isn't golden, maybe you need new glasses."

Delegates could also choose from among sessions on youth values, self-esteem, leading with class, healthy competition and managing change.

At the conference's banquet Shirley McClellan, Associate Agriculture Minister, and Annette Polanski, 1991 Premier's Award winner, stressed the importance of leader volunteers to the 4-H movement. McClellan later inducted four new members into the Alberta 4-H Hall of Fame. Elaine Lyster of Vilna, Geoff Hardy of Pincher Creek, Bob Boulton of Lousana and Harold Taylor of Chauvin were the honorees.

As well, the 75th Anniversary Committee honored Shelanda Kujala, a 4-H member from Eckville, for her design of the 75th anniversary logo, and the Alberta 4-H Council presented appreciation plaques to former directors of the 4-H Foundation of Alberta.

UFA supports 4-H

United Farmers of Alberta has recently announced its sponsorship of Showcase '92, a celebration of the 75th anniversary of 4H in Alberta. To be held in Calgary, July 31st - August 2nd, Showcase '92 is expected to attract four to five thousand 4H members, alumni, and their families from across the province. It will include a dedication ceremony, parade, livestock shows, heritage fashion show, home economics activities, and entertainment.

UFA, the first major sponsor to announce its participation in Showcase '92, will focus its contribution on Family Night, to be held the evening of July 31. Unlike many of the more project-involved activities, Family Night will be an informal opportunity for 4H members and their families to relax, mingle, and dance to the music of Edmonton's Family McDade Band.

In addition to Showcase '92, UFA, a consistent supporter of 4H in the past, will continue to support provincial and regional 4H efforts in 1992, including public speaking, the "Let's All Judge" program to be held in each of seven regions, and seminars and workshops, as well as local projects including 4H steer sales.

"It's important for UFA to support 4H," commented John Lee, UFA Marketing and Public Relations Coordinator. "UFA and 4H have shared in Alberta's history since the earliest days, and 4H has been a tremendous asset, providing the building blocks for future farmers and leaders."

75th anniversary of 4-H

In honor of the 75th anniversary of Alberta 4-H we are celebrating with Showcase '92. From July 31 to August 2, 1992 this Showcase celebration will take place at Calgary Exhibition and Stampede Park.

Gail Companion, the coordinator for Showcase '92 will be giving a presentation on the event. We encourage ALL 4-H enthusiasts to attend, you need not be a member, everyone is welcome. At this time Gail will answer any questions you may have regarding Showcase '92.

Want to learn more about our 75th Anniversary Event? Come to Cremona, Feb. 20, at Cremona Hall, 7:30 p.m. and you will find out what Showcase '92 is all about. Hosted by Cremona 4-H Club. For more information call Laurie Lewis 335-4197 evenings.

Bill Collector remembers human side of job

Jerry Statz is out to put Hollywood's version of the club-dredging, leg breaking Bill Collector to rest for good.

Statz says he has a different idea as to what qualities his independently run Collections Business out of Olds should possess. "We all have been caught unable to pay our bills at one time or another and you can't judge people or label them a certain way because of it... you have to sit down with people face to face and talk about their credit problems in a respectful manner," says Statz.

Whether it's through his experience raising a family of 13 with wife Wendy or working at his other job, a commodity business partnership, Statz has learned truth to the old adage of letting calmer heads prevail in a crisis. "I've lived here for about 12 years now and I really like the atmosphere of this area. I've been asked to work my collections business out of Calgary, but I don't think I'd want to... I've come to know a lot of people and those I deal with, on the whole, are very responsible," Statz explains.

In keeping with his personable ideals of how to run a business successfully, Statz says he rarely discusses accounts over the phone. "I usually just call people to make arrangements to come out to their homes and discuss the matter first-hand. You don't come out a winner when someone's screaming down your throat over the phone... it's a psychological thing really," Statz says. Yelling, from his experiences, only serves to close off people's minds to any suggestions about payment plans he would like them to consider.

Carrying out his business in any other manner, according to Statz, is self-defeating, not only for himself, but also the client that hires him. "The business that hires me on to do a job loses two ways; they lose the money owing to them and they lose the customer, because guaranteed that person is never going to shop at his store again."

The months of February and March are sure to present Statz from losing any business himself, however. If trends are any indication, these will be among his busiest months. "People just find it tougher to cope after Christmas and all. I know I've been there myself... we all have."

The most important thing in Statz's kind of collection operation is keeping people out of the courts and remembering to be patient and courteous.

"I've never been asked to leave a home, never been threatened or told off. I've always played fair. It's just communications, that's all."

Partial restoration of 80-year-old horse barn

The Alberta Historical Resources Foundation is granting Olds College $5,000 in matching funds towards the restoration of the 80-year-old Horse Barn on campus.

The funding is intended to help bear the cost of re-shingling the barn roof, but College Dean of Student Services, Sharon Carry, says that is just a small part of what can be done to preserve the College's heritage.

"I would like to see us take advantage of every opportunity available in this area... we have a responsibility to preserve and learn from our past and have, therefore, applied to have not only the horse barn, but also the water tower, calf barn, many of our plantings and shelterbelt trees designated as Provincial Historic Resources," Carry says. "We have tremendous roots here linking us to the past... roots that represent the historic evolution of this institution."

Some of the plantings were originally brought on campus for students under the "Demonstration Farm" concept developed by the Department of Agriculture in 1911. The Siberian Crabapples, planted as ornamentals, and Rescue Apples, planted in the orchard, are considered uncommon to our province. Early Plant Science instructor, Arthur Kemp, was responsible for bringing in such tree species and establishing unique plant collections on campus.

Today, after weathering nearly a century, all plantings remain in fair to good condition. "This type of resource is often overlooked and thought of as easily replaced, but that's not necessarily the case... the age of some of the trees and their special placement on the grounds here has a very significant history," says Carry.

Despite their own long-standing presence on campus, both the water tower and horse barn remain in fair condition. Some upgrading has, however, had to take place over the years and will continue to be needed as gradual deterioration of items such as floors, windows and frames takes place. Funding to undertake such projects is often difficult to obtain.

"The barn is an exceptional specimen of architecture of the era," Carry comments. "The loft still contains the working counterweighted opening system. It's those kinds of interesting features about the barn and some of our other resources that makes us realize how important it is to work at preserving our heritage."

If you would like to learn more about the history at Olds College, or are interested in supporting the efforts being made to preserve some of Olds College's heritage, please contact Dean of Student Services, Sharon Carry, at (403) 556-8337.

CREMONA/WATER VALLEY NEWS

Cremona Minor Hockey news

By Ryan Robertson

Saturday, January 25 had our Dynamite Team at home against Sundre. Although eventually falling to their northern counterparts, 8-4, the kids played well!

Kurtis Backstrom had a strong game for Cremona scoring once and setting up a very pretty goal by Dusty Ryan. Dusty collected one other, and continued his fine play. The other goal came courtesy of Jesse Zinter. Brad Whitlow played very well in net for Cremona! Good efforts guys!

Backed by very good goaltending of Denton Edge, the Cremona Atom B's kept pace, but fell a little short of Airdrie 7-5 in a League Game played here on Saturday. The game featured a good flow.

On Sunday, in a rematch of the week before, in Exhibition play, the Cremona Novice Team, led by a strong performance by Curtis MacRae who had 1 goal and 2 assists, defeated Cochrane 5-1. Jared Payne opened the scoring early in the First and the team added one more that period when Nathan Ryan scored on a nice pass from Dusty Kinch. Two more goals were added in the Second, one by Rory Gunderson and the other by Aaron Robertson, both on passes from Curtis MacRae. Curtis then added the only Cremona goal of the Third.

Stacey Farquharson provided good goaltending for Cremona. A good team effort!

Next action is Feb. 1st here at 9 a.m. against Carstairs 2 in League play.

Finally this week, the Pee Wees, entering the First Round of Provincials, trounced Chestermere Lake 12-3, Saturday night. A solid, all-round team performance proved to be the difference.

Sons of Norway

Over 200 guests enjoyed the annual cod supper served on Jan. 26. A big thanks to all these people who support us.

Thanks to all our members who worked hard for this project, from ticket sellers to dish washers and everything in between.

Thanks to Karre and Kirsten Snarud of Sundre for lending us their authentic Norwegian farm buildings which were displayed by Gerald.

Lucky winners of the 10 o'clock raffle were: Elsie Wick won the tray of baking and Kendra Mogch won the beaded cloth. At the 5 o'clock raffle Ellen Thompson won the tray of baking and Hannah Johnston won the bun warmer. Thanks to Helen Weber for donating both the beaded cloth and the bun warmer.

Fjellsyn Lodge held their meeting on Jan. 27. Noreen welcomed our guest Knut Haga from Valhalla Lodge, Calgary.

Two new members were voted on and approved. We welcome Inga and Henning Norre as new members to our Lodge.

Olga thanked the members who had brought baking for the dessert table at the cod supper.

Vice President Leif presented Oddie Moe with his pin for signing up two new members.

A letter was read from Sonia Morgan of Saskatoon informing us that travel arrangements have been made with K.L.M. airlines for the Convention which will be held in Norway in Aug. 1992.

Knut Haga performed the ceremony for the installation of officers, assisted by Don and Emil.

The new officers are Bob Kennedy as Assistant Marshall and Teresa Kobberstad as third year trustee. Thanks to the retiring officers for a job well done.

Knut invited all to a Lutfisk dinner at the Scandanavian

Center on Feb. 2, two settings at 12:30 and 2:15 p.m.

On Jan. 12 Selma Sorenson of Edmonton gave a video presentation of the Norwegian ship "Gaia" arriving in Newfoundland. We were pleased to see so many out and want to thank Otto's Electric of Olds for lending us a 32 inch T.V., this was greatly appreciated.

Wine and cheese and visiting brought the meeting to a close. The next meeting will be held on Feb. 24.

La Leche League news

Babies are to love. The old term "tender loving care" still describes best what a baby needs most. The topic for the Feb. 13 meeting of the Carstairs La Leche League, "Baby Arrives," "The Family" and "The Breastfed Baby," will focus on the needs and demands a new baby has and how they affect the relationships in the rest of the family. The meeting will be held at the Didsbury ECS Portable (next to pool), 21 Ave. & 21 St., Didsbury, on Thursday, Feb. 13 at 10:30 a.m.

In his helpful book for parents, "The Child Under Six," James Hymes, capsulizes the world of a baby. "He needs mothering. He needs nurturing. He needs someone who will care for him. Someone big and strong, able and willing and ready." All these rolled together equal tender loving care.

"The Child Under Six" is just one of the many books available for loan from the League's vast lending library. Books on Breastfeeding, Childbirth, Nutrition, Allergies, Working and Breastfeeding and Parenting are available at every meeting.

For further information on Breastfeeding, Counselling, Carpooling or directions, contact Gwen at 337-2490 or Luana at 335-2331. Expectant mothers, babies and toddlers are always welcome.

Mount View Lodge news

By Annie Caush

Hi, all! We're all still enjoying our warm spring weather in January. Hope we don't get our winter in April!

Speaking of April it's still some distance away but we'd like you to mark your calendar for our Lodge Auxiliary Spring Tea on April 14th. We look forward to meeting a lot of friends that day.

At the recent Pool Tournament the winners were - "A" side 1st - Doug Burns, 2nd - Phyllis Sande. "B" side 1st was Karl Lenz and 2nd - Sid Smith. Congratulations!

The January birthday party was hosted by Auxiliary members Mrs. Grace de Jong and Mrs. Nancy Herbert. Our entertainment was provided by singer Mrs. Dokter. Thanks so much for a lovely program which included a duet in the Dutch language by Mrs. Dokter and Grace de Jong. After the program we enjoyed visiting over coffee and the lovely lunch brought by the ladies. We only celebrated one birthday in January for Mr. Riddell.

We have had several other groups in this month as well.

The U.C.W. came in and called Bingo one afternoon and served lunch. Another day we had 3 ladies come and sing for us, Grace Duff, Marie Gilmore and Carol Wambold. Other groups as East Olds Baptist and our faithful Bible study leaders come on a regular basis. We also had a group from May City Missionary Church recently and they provided us with a lovely musical program.

Thanks so much to all of you. Your coming means so much to those who aren't able to be out much.

One day this month we had something a little different--we were to bring articles we had that originated in other countries and tell where they came from. It was most interesting and I'm just sorry I didn't count the countries represented but there were a lot. I do know that at least five continents were represented!

In hospital we have Mrs. Ehrmann and Mr. Sorenson. Get well soon!

Didsbury Men's Curling Team push their way to provincial finals

There was a pot of gold awaiting Didsbury's Junior Men's Curling Team in Medicine Hat this weekend. It was the end to a rainbow of wins qualifying the team to rank among three others bound to the Junior Men's Championship taking place in Peace River February 19, 1992.

Neil Kennedy headed up the winning rink which includes Tyler Marshall, Shawn Phillips and Jamie Gingrich as lead.

Cody Johnson's team from Calgary and Tyler Couch's team were the other qualifying curlers that will be heading to Peace River a short two weeks from now.

Many times over the past few months, The Didsbury Review has made mention the Neil Kennedy team was the only team to advance to the provincial level from this area. Betty Kennedy informs us, however, that Neil's team was not the first team to progress to that level from the Didsbury area. We would like to apologize for any misunderstandings this may have caused in previous articles. We're very proud of you all! Good luck in Peace River on the 19th!

Broncos with playoff chance

Olds College Lady Broncos kept their play-off hopes alive on the weekend with a split in weekend matches.

Canada's number four-ranked (ACAC number 1 ranked) Medicine Hat Rattlers defeated the Broncos three games to one on Friday. Olds won by the same score on Saturday as they posted their second straight win over the Lethbridge College Kodiaks.

Olds threw a real scare into Medicine Hat as they won the first game 15-10 and then lost a close 15-13 fourth game which would have tied the match. Medicine Hat had lost only once to lead the ACAC scoring ranks.

The Olds Broncos are now only two points out of fourth place and a win against fourth place SAIT team on Feb. 12th could propel the Broncos into the ACAC play-offs. A record home crowd attendance is expected and fans are encouraged to get their tickets early. Bring your toys and make some noise! Let's show the ACAC that Olds College fans are number one.

Medicine Hat completed a sweep on Friday by scoring a 3-0 win over the Bronco Men's team. The Broncos rebounded on Saturday after dropping the first two games to Lethbridge, scoring a dramatic 3-2 victory over the Kodiaks. Coach Ray Rocheleau was pleased with the efforts of his reserves who responded to a recent string of injuries. Rob Young with 13 kills turned in a very strong game as a middle hitter.

BRONCO BITS - Next home game for the Broncos is Wednesday, February 12th when they host SAIT. This is the last home game of the season and many prizes will be given out to our loyal fans. Cheer for Pizza and have fresh pizza delivered right to your seats. Look for the many other giveaways and help establish a record crowd.

On track

Canadians are ready for some more Olympic fare, Biathlon, hockey, flying skis and winter underwear. Our hearts still beat from Cowtown where the Eagle took a dive,

What spirit, these Olympics, will compete and stay alive. Canadians are restless now, we know the world called win, Our figure skaters, speed, and tricks like free style ski are in.

The Great White North has solid stock, our folks will do just fine, Recall Elizabeth Manley and young Karen Percy shine. A brand new life for Canada, whatever colours race, The date is February 8, and Albertville the place.

Sundre Bantam Huskies

Gold medal winners at Big Country Winter Game held in Sundre.

Sharks win ninth

The Sharks won their ninth game of the year on Sat., Feb. 1st when they downed the Olds 1 team 7 to 6.

The Sharks jumped out to a 3 to 1 lead on goals from James McRae (Phillip McNeil), Scott Murphy (Matt Wright) and an unassisted goal by Joe Leonard. C. Overwater responded for Olds.

The Sharks got two in the second, one by Scott Murphy, and the other by Seth Leonard (Joe Leonard). Olds caught fire getting 4 goals in the second. R. Florence, C. Overwater (2) and S. VanDePyekamp rounded off the scoring.

Didsbury took the lead in the third on a goal from James McRae only to have Olds tie it about 1 minutes later when S. VanDePyekamp got his second assisted by B. Mattson.

The Sharks rounded off the scoring at 8:07 when Seth Leonard (Joe Leonard) scored the winning goal. Both teams were 0 for 1 on the powerplay while Olds outshot Didsbury 18 to 11.

System helps design highways

By John Eberlee

Two computer software designers at the Alberta Research Council have created perhaps the first computer system in the world that can design intersections for rural highways.

The 'expert' system, which runs on an IBM personal computer, can determine in less than 15 minutes the correct mix of right- and left-hand turning lanes and bypasses to place at intersections. It also calculates how long they should be to ensure motorists' safety.

Done by hand, such calculations typically take between two and three hours, says assistant research officer Mark Brinsmead, who created the system with help from his colleague Jim Tubman. It saves engineers "a great deal of drudgery," he stresses.

In addition, it may also lower construction costs by helping standardize the design process. Some engineers now have a tendency to overdesign, adding features that aren't really necessary, Tubman explains -- for example, putting "a right-turn roadway on an intersection which sees 20 cars a day."

Rural intersections are assessed every time the roads are upgraded or repaved, or if statistics show that too many accidents are occurring at them. "At about the time we started this project, the Alberta government decided it would pave all the secondary highways in the province," says Brinsmead. That meant thousands of intersections would need redesigning in a short time.

For the vast majority of intersections, there's hardly any traffic so nothing fancy has to be done, he says. "You just put the road straight through." But to arrive at this decision takes almost as much time as to design a complex intersection -- a major reason automation was necessary.

Besides dealing with these cases, the system can design more complex intersections. Using data on traffic and 'turning' volume, it diagnoses whether to construct wider shoulders or bypass lanes. Left and right turn lanes get the nod only at intersections with consistently heavy traffic.

For safety reasons, the system designs left turn lanes to include both "a storage portion" and "a deceleration portion," says Brinsmead. The storage portion is long enough to accommodate all the cars which can reasonably make the turn during a gap in oncoming traffic. The deceleration portion -- whose length is determined from road condition data -- provides some extra breathing room, he adds. "It ensures you won't hit the last car in the turn lane when you're slowing down."

Normally engineers make these decisions, but that could change. Once the computer system is in place across the province, summer students will probably be the principal users. The system will prompt them for data, and then 'spit out' a report. Only at the end will human judgement come into play, says Tubman. "Designs won't get used without a senior engineer seeing and approving them first."

The system is being tested at a few Alberta locations, where it's receiving good reviews. Eventually, other highway departments may use it too.

Development of the system was paid for by the Alberta government.

Good news, AGT won't raise rates

AGT Limited has advised the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) it is withdrawing its application for a general rate review.

The substantial decline in interest rates has allowed AGT Limited to restructure its long term debt resulting in significant savings. As a result of the revised circumstances, local rate increases requested for June 1st, 1992 will no longer be required. It is AGT's view that it would not be in the public interest to proceed with the CRTC hearings set to begin in Calgary on Feb. 10.

Jackson W.I. news

For the January meeting, we convened at Marie Olson's home. Joan Foat, our president, welcomed the members and especially welcomed our new member, Marie Scott. Marie, as hostess, chose, "Oh, What A Beautiful Morning" as our opener. We then repeated the Mary Stewart Collect. Joan read a poem about farmers entitled, "You Are A Blessing In Our Land."

Thirteen members answered the roll call, which was "Choose a new, first name for yourself." Most of us were content with our given names especially as some are now coming back in style. There were such modern names as Allison, Tara and Amber chosen as alternatives to our more staid, old fashioned names.

The yearly agenda was handed out to each member. Many thanks and our gratitude must go to Evelyn Bohannon. Each year she types up the schedule for the year with many priceless sayings that make the results so interesting. One such "The mighty oak was once a little nut that held its ground."

Lita Reid, our secretary, read the minutes and they were approved as read. The treasurer, Marie Olson, gave her report about our financial condition. A letter was read from our District Director, Kay Silvers, giving us the specifics about the March 2-3, District Conference to be held at the Crowchild Inn. Our two delegates will be Marie Scott and Marie Olson.

Our yearly dues was the next item on the agenda. Kay Unger moved, Evelyn Bohannon seconded the motion that we should raise the dues to $20.00. The motion was carried.

We received an invitation to attend the annual meeting of the Hospital Volunteers on Feb. 6 at 7:30. Martha Felker volunteered to attend to represent our Institute.

The executive meeting will be on Jan. 29 at Karen Flack's home.

The annual donation list was discussed. We donate to such organizations as C.N.I.B. and Operation Eyesight plus Inter-Institute Needs. Kay Unger moved, seconded by Darlene Hallett that we give Lita Reid a sum of money so that she will be able to continue sending cards to our members when the need arises.

February 19th is Founder's Day and we usually choose a day near that date to treat our husbands to a "Husband Party." Darlene Hallett and Elma Bird are going to check into dates and the phoning committee will contact us. The members voted unanimously to go out for supper and then, hopefully, to see a slide show on Iceland.

Keep Nellie's 80th birthday in mind and on your calendar. February 22nd is the day, from 2-5 the hours.

The meeting was adjourned and we were then treated to a very complete and complex stamp collection. Thank you.

A very tasty lunch was served by Lita Reid and Joan Foat.

Our next meeting will be held at Alice Van Arnam's home on the 26th of February. Marie

North Lone Pine W.I.

By Christine Milne, Sec.

Our first meeting of 1992 was hosted by Shirley Thompson, Jan. 28 at 9:30 a.m., six members and two visitors attended. Roll call - "A New Year's Resolution." These were sealed in an envelope to be opened in December. We shall learn how resolved we really are.

We hope to send a delegate to the Hospital Volunteers Annual Meeting, Feb. 6. Several members will attend the Constituency Executive Meeting, Feb. 11 at Jan Coates'. Hazel Milne has taken over our Home Ec. Convenorship.

Olson and Noreen Olson will preside over the tea urn. There will be a Grab-Bag Auction to raise money for Founder's Day. The item in the bag (sealed) can be funny, tacky or worthwhile. It should be fun!

We enjoyed a visit from Millie McNeil, who brought us a sampler of yarns woven into polyester canvas. Many interesting patterns can be worked, using worsted-weight yarns. Articles such as afghans, place mats and armchair covers can be made, and for smaller articles, left-over yarns can be used.

We drew up our monthly meeting roster for Feb. to June. The contest--most letters in your middle name--was won by Chris Milne, as was the 25 cents draw.

A delicious luncheon rounded out a fun morning.

Make a different resolution this New Year

(NC)—What do Phil Collins, Flora MacDonald, Erica Ehm, Sonja Smits, Holly Hunter, Sir John Gielgud, a fisher from Newfoundland and an executive in Toronto all have in common? They've resolved to help make the world a better place by signing the International OXFAM Resolution and pledging to work for change.

Most of us make resolutions for the New Year. They are usually short-lived attempts to improve ourselves: no more smoking, drinking, go on a diet, try to develop more patience at work, and the like.

This resolution is different. You'll be resolving to join with OXFAM to work for a fairer world. Through this resolution, you're pledging your support to help others help themselves as they work towards a better life based on self-sufficiency and justice.

50th Anniversary Campaign
1992 marks the 50th year of the OXFAM movement. Founded in 1942, to aid famine victims behind the Allied Blockade in Greece, OXFAM began a long tradition of volunteers supporting people in other countries. We believe in people to people aid.

During our 50th year, OXFAM is asking a million people around the world to help us celebrate our anniversary by signing the International OXFAM Resolution, and pledging to work for change in this unfair world.

Signing the resolution is a good start. But we're also asking people to make a commitment to do something practical to work for change. We invite you to be partners in this celebration of the work of our global partners.

WORKING FOR CHANGE
OXFAM CANADA

Canadians Working For Change
The campaign in Canada is called Working For Change as a reminder that most of the poor in the underdeveloped world are not passive recipients of foreign aid but are working hard to build a better life for themselves and their families. It also indicates that long-term change is necessary for a better, safer, healthier future for these people and their communities.

There are several ways you can get involved. But it starts with making a different kind of resolution this year. To find out more about the campaign, or to get a resolution card, please write:

or call 1-800-387-4760.

When you're making your list of New Year's Resolutions, you may want to add one about working for change.

In Memoriam

NEUFELD, Ronald - In loving memory of our father and papa who passed away February 6, 1990.

"What we would give if we could say We'll go and see our Dad today. To hear his voice and see his smile And sit and talk with him awhile. He had a sense of humor, That made things so much fun, He always had a friendly word To say to everyone.

When we are sad and lonely And everything goes wrong, We seem to hear him whisper 'Do your best and carry on.' So many times we've needed him. So many times we've cried.

If our love could have saved him He never would have died. Dear Lord, please take a message To our dear Dad above.

Tell him how much we miss him And give him all our love."

Always remembered and sadly missed by his loving family. 40-1tc

Canadian agriculture not adequately addressed

Dear Editor:

Last Dec. 20, after 5 years of attempting to negotiate an end to the current international trade disputes, Arthur Dunkel, the Secretary General of GATT, tabled a very lengthy document in which he made recommendations for solving these difficulties. His document covers all matters of trade, but everyone agrees that the most contentious sections deal with agriculture.

It is with deep concern that I view the government's reactions to this document.

Canada finds itself in the precarious position of being the victim of an international trade war which it did not start, nor to which it is a willing participant. On a per capita basis, there probably is not a nation in the world that is more seriously affected by the disastrous consequences of this war. We must find a solution to this insanity, and we must find it soon. However, the current proposed solutions do not adequately address the requirements of any sector of Canadian agriculture.

The Dunkel recommendations would require all nations to reduce the size of their export subsidies by 36 per cent in value and by 24 per cent in volume by the year 1999. This requirement would be of little benefit to the Canadian grain farmer in the short run, and would only marginally improve his position in the longer run. The only real winners would be the governments at both the federal as well as provincial levels. The marginal improvement in grain prices that would result from such a modest reduction in export subsidies would, I am sure, be used by governments to reduce the size of their contributions to the agricultural pot. It would take the abolition of those subsidies to give the Canadian grain producer the much needed relief from his current calamitous plight. Dunkel's proposed reductions are far too little, and far too late. By 1999, the needed improvement of the markets for the Canadian grain farmer will long since have become meaningless. No creditor will be willing to wait that long for prices to improve. I doubt that governments would have either the funds or the fortitude to maintain even their current level of support that many farmers are finding inadequate. From the Canadian grain producer's perspective, the "winners" will also be losers.

Included in Dunkel's "clean tariffication" proposal, would be the requirement that nations convert all current trade barriers to tariffs, which would be gradually eliminated. The supply managed commodities would not be allowed to maintain their current system of production. Studies released by the poultry industry indicate that under a tariffication model, within five years production would be virtually wiped out in both the eastern and the western sections of the Canada. Even in central Canada, consolidation would eliminate the vast majority of the producers. When government officials are asked what effect they feel that tariffication would have on the industry, they have no answer, as they have no studies that would counter those findings. The feather industry would soon mirror that of the American system, where the family farm is no longer in existence. The dairy industry would similarly be severely affected.

Canada's largest market for its feed grains is currently found within its own border. The Dunkel proposals are going to eliminate a large sector of our current domestic market. We have no assurances that replacement can be found for this loss in market. I find it shocking that the Alberta agriculture department feels that these proposals should be accepted as proposed.

Canada must not support an agreement that would allow other countries to retain their subsidies, even though reduced marginally in size and volume, while forcing Canadian to give up our domestic policies which allow for servicing our own markets in supply managed commodities. Since supply management, through its production disciplines, does not contribute to international trade distortions, it should not be a victim of the solutions to those distortions.

Dunkel challenged all the GATT members to judge the entire deal, not just the pieces. Export markets for grains and oilseeds would receive only minimal assistance, the domestic grain markets would be seriously hurt, while the supply managed sectors of agriculture would be dealt a near fatal blow.

Canada entered this round of the GATT talks with a balanced position, identifying what was needed for all of Canadian agriculture. The needs of no sector of our agriculture have been adequately addressed by the Dunkel paper, and the very existence of some sectors are placed in serious jeopardy.

Canada must say a forceful NO to these proposals. This complex trade picture cannot be allowed to follow the Golden Rule of Negotiations, where those who have all the gold, get to set all the rules.

Ferintosh, Alberta
